

Work At Home Vintage Experts

Welcome to a new way to hire – and preretire

It all started in 2010 with a simple idea – to build a unique contract staffing talent solution in the insurance industry that brings companies and retiring professionals across the country together.

We're breaking barriers and changing the "how" and "who" of work.

We are bridging the gap between an employer's talent needs and retirees extending their career working from home.

Today, WAHVE is a 100% virtual company that has made this unbeatable combination a reality. Companies get the highly skilled, experienced and trained talent they need – while retiring professionals get to continue their careers working from home.

We want to transform how businesses, workers and society view staffing, retirement and alternative work arrangements.

We believe businesses should have access to the most knowledgeable, highly capable professionals at an affordable rate. We also believe vintage workers should be able to continue working while enjoying financial stability and work-life balance.
